1/29/01 A99-03-025 Roseville Telephone Company, to review its New Regulatory Framework.

Summary: On January 24, 2001, Brian Chang, the Office of Ratepayer Advocates' (ORA) Program and Project Supervisor, met with Trina Horner, advisor to Cmmr. Lynch, in San Francisco. Also present were Robert Welchlin and Ron Klote, Overland consultants, and Lee-Whei Tan, Regulatory Analyst, for the ORA. ORA representatives stated that it is premature to suspend sharing for Roseville Telephone Company (Roseville) since the market is not comeptitive and the Commission is initiating an investigation to review Rosevielle's revenue reuquirement. ORA indicated that the audit of Roseville found cost misallocations and cross-subsidization and that the suspension of the price cap have resulted in no financial benefits to ratepayers. ORA stated that the sharing mechnaism provides a consumer safeguard to ensure against subsequent cost misallocation and cross-subsidization. ORA explained the bases for its support of the proposed decision's (PD) reversal of Roseville's adjustment to expense 1999 software development cost; that the PD's 1999 new regulatory framework (NRF) sharable earnings do not need to be recalculated; that Roseville should not be permitted to shift regulated teelphone directory revenues to its affiliate without commission approval; and that the Commission should adopt ORA's general allocator instead of Roseville's threefactor allocator. ORA pointed out that Roseville's request to recover earlier year software depreciation costs should be denied since the costs were expensed when they incurred. ORA stated that the 1999 NRF earnings were calculated already largely based on Roseville's 1999 book data, nothing significant would impact the results; on the other hand, Roseville is likely to use PD's permission to amend the calculation as an opportinity to reduce the amount of sharing. ORA argued that Roseville should ask the Commission's approval prior to changint its directory revnue retention ratio. In addition, ORA informed the Commission of the need for Roseville to do a depreciation study before granting the elimination of annual depreciation review.

Summary: On January 24, 2001, Joseph Paul of Dynegy Marketing and Trade (Dynegy), had a telephone conversation with Trina Horner, advisor to Cmmr. Lynch. In the communication also participated Brian Cragg, counsel for Dynegy. Paul stated that the proposal presented by Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) in its second expedited petition for modification of D00-12-064 was a reasonable approach to addressing PG&E's current credit problems with regard to natural gas suppliers, and Dynegy therefore supported PG&E's request.

Summary: On January 24, 2001, Gordon R. Smith, President and Chief Executive Officer, Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E), initiated a telephone conversation with Cmmr. Wood. Smith indicated that the gas supply situation is still precarious and the DOE order will end on February 7. Smith noted that suppliers are making commitments now for February and continue to be reluctant to enter into any transactions with PG&E without additional credit asurances. Smit explained that failure of PG&E's core procurement to obtain supplies during the current bid-week will make it difficult for them to obtain February supplies at any price next month and that offering a security interest in a portion of PG&E's accounts receivable will be a significant help in obtaining forward gas supplies. Smith stressed that failure to povide this assurance by postponing action will greatly diminish PG&E's ability to acquire supplies for February and beyond. Smith noted that the most important thing is for the Commission to act immediately to approve PG&E's petition to modify and that this would send an important message to the gas supply community.

Summary: LATE FILED. AUGMENTATION REQUIRED. On January 12, 2001,

Ron Knecht of Advocaets for the Public Interst (API), met with Jonathna Lakritz, advisor to Cmmr. Wood. Knecht advised the Commission of the following: applicable law confers very wide latitude on the Commission to attach conditions and limitations to any grant of approval for the M&A; the size of the acquisition premia proposed to be paid by California-American Water Company (Cal-Am), is the problem in these cases. Knecht stated that the primary public interest revolves around whether there are any net synergies and toehr social benefits to the M&A and whether the particulars of the M&A proposal would economically efficiently, farily, equitably, justly, reasonably and in a balanced way distribute the benefits among the various utility ratepayer, investor and other parties. Knecht explained that, traditionally, utility stockholders have reaped only the protion of such benefits, while the lion's share have accred to ratepayers and that it is reasonable to depart from this standard only to the minimum Brian Cherry, Manager, Regulatory Relations, Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E), had a telephone conference with Trina Horner, advisor to Cmmr. Lynch. In the conference also participated Laura Kranawitter, advisor to Cmmr. Duque, Julie Halligan and Ann Watson, advisors to Cmmr. Bilas, ALJs Minkin and Wong, Mark Pocta of the Office of Ratepayer Advocates, Richard Myers of the Energy Division, and the following PG&E representatives: Trista Berkovitz, Director, Core Procurement, Kirk Johnson, Director, Gas Operations, and Dennis Gee, Manager, John Armato, Specialist, and Dennis Clavier, Specialist, Gas Procurement. Cherry stated that the Commission needed to move swiftly to approve the application. In addition, Cherry stated that under optimum operating conditions and assuming no other gas suppliers withdrew from their supply commitments, PG&E would likely begin involuntary noncore diversions by the middle of next month.
